Southern Life Style

USMmmm

The life of a college student is like a kaleidoscope—it is constantly changing. Our education is made up of so much more than just classes: it is living, being a part of the whole collage of USM and of the world. Our lives are opened up to a "real world" of change, moving so fast we have to grab on and hold on with all our might. This is the life of a college student—a collage of different experiences, each affecting each person differently. What this year has meant to each of our lives will tell as we live to journey on with the knowledge we gained as part of this campus, this life, this kaleidoscope.

A Colláge

The 1981-82 USM colláge included everyone at USM. Each person had a part to fit in the puzzle. This "melting pot" consisted of those in fraternities, sororities, indedpendents, commuters, dorm residents coming from rural and urban communities in and out Baptist, Methodist, Catholic, the intellectual, the athletic, the black, the white, the foreign—all comprising the freshmen, sophomore, junior, senior, and graduate classes—quite a unique mixture.

As students, we are only at USM for a short while, yet those who make up the structure of the university work on a long range schedule.

As a state supported school, USM is responsible to the State of Mississippi first of all. Next in the heirarchy come the administration where most important decisions concerning the University are made. Then there are the various colleges that go into making up a university, each headed by a dean. Each college has many departments with a department chairman and staff. The staff is comprised of the professor who is ideally the most important part of the teaching process and is thus part of the backbone of the University.

Another division of structure is the student organizations such as the ASB, UAC, or the greek and service organizations. These function as an integral part of the workings of the University.

Evidence of structure within the Greek organizations can be found as well as in the dormatories with dorm councils and officers. Structure is the skeleton of USM while the students are the flesh.

Of Structure

The use of the mind is what going to school and studying is all about—the process of learning what will be beneficial toward a career in the "real world." This acquiring knowledge or receiving an education is the purpose of the University of Southern Mississippi and there is much to stimulate the mind here—lectures by famous individuals on current issues, organizations whether political, religious, social or service, but most especially the majors that are offered themselves. Each major proposes to shape the students' mind in its way of thinking; to make the major a part of the student.

Freud's Id, ego and superego each receive satisfaction at USM. To the Id, or animal instinct, USM offers social opportunities in many different forms such as Greek organizations, dorm swaps and student body events. The Hattiesburg community also has much to offer the Id with many nightspots. The superego is also offered much at USM with many religious organizations on campus such as the Baptist Student Union, the Newman Club, the Wesley Foundation and Campus Crusade for Christ to name a few. The ego, or mediator or balancer between the fun loving side and the strictly conservative side, is offered choices as to which the student could be doing—studying in the library, going to class, or partying.

Of Minds

PARIBAS

There are many examples of color at USM; the most obvious being the seasons of the year. The fall is characterized by the changes of the trees from green to beautiful bright oranges, yellows, rusts, and browns. The spring is another time of change, except this time the earth awakens out of the deep sleep of winter and renews itself. The most brilliant colors imaginable lighten up the campus and give the sunny touch to everyone's spirits. Another example of color is evident at sporting events. For instance, the USM victory over MSU in Jackson in November '81; the entire USM section of the stadium was a black and gold mass of screaming fans—the color of support and school pride. The colorful personalities found at USM would be yet another example of color. Whether it be students, faculty, or even administration, anything out of the ordinary colors the campus. In using color to describe the mood of USM, nothing dull could do, only the most attractive and brilliant would be true.

Of Color

There are many ways and means used by students to attend USM. Some of these include help from parents, grants, loans, scholarships, work study, and off campus jobs.

Some ways and means of getting about the campus and city of Hattiesburg include not only our feet, but bicycles, unicycles, and busses and automobiles (sometimes with some difficulty finding a parking space).

There are various ways and means of studying, learning and making the grades. Many study alone or in groups in the library or at home in the dorm or apartment. Each uses his own formula for the burden faced by all. However, here we have our own way of doing things . . . it's called SOUTHERN STYLE!

Of Ways And Means

Of Trends

A university is the center of not only the most up to date thinking of the time, but also the trends of the time. So USM is where it's happening in fads and fashion. The Cowboy fad is still around just like the preppie. People wear their jeans and boots and western shirts and hats and also their button downs and penny loafers with kahki pants. One of the latest fads to emerge on campus is the punk look, characterized by odd clothes and Rod Stewart hair cuts. The forever fashionable Levis, Izods, and Nike tennis shoes are being joined by the Polo. The trend is toward shorter dresses, knickers, and Bermuda shorts.

Actually USM doesn't have a reputation for fashion, but has a mixture of many styles and a "do your own thing" attitude backing up the acceptance of each person as an individual with individual differences.

When the work "support" is mentioned on campus the first thought would be of the support that the student body, faculty, administration, community, and state give to USM. Football fans found it easy to support the nationally ranked Golden Eagles all the way to Florida and the Tangerine Bowl. Two Bits was USM's own symbol of support for our team whether they won or lost. Other kinds of support materialized from campus security and the escort service offered as a form of protection on campus after dark. The counseling service offered support to those seeking to find their place in this "land of opportunity." USM is supported by community businesses and churches, many catering to the needs of students. Most retail businesses displayed Eagle Fever posters and helped to publicize the university in other ways. It was a beneficial cycle of the community supporting USM and USM supporting the community.

Another very important area of support was the instruction by the professors and staff of the university working with students towards the goal of understanding. The underlying root to the whole complex mesh of support at the University of Southern Mississippi.

G. Gordon Liddy

"The Watergate Affair"

Convicted Watergate conspiritor G. Gordon Liddy told a packed audience at Bennett Auditorium that Americans have been living a life of illusions and that decisions based on those illusions are hurting them. The world operates under social Darwinism—"The big fish have always eaten the little fish," Liddy said, and "the realities are there which the illusions can never mask.

Calling his address a continuation of the debate on the question on why so much is going wrong with the country, Liddy said the vast majority of Americans differ from the people of Europe, Africa, and Asia in that they "live lives of illusion."

"Either we are unable to apprehend reality, or if we can, we tend to turn away from, shun, the harsher aspects of it. The idea being I suppose, if you don't look at it, pretend it isn't there, somehow or other it will go away."

Americans have confused the world as it really is with the world the way they wish or pray it were, Liddy said. They have tried to create a "risk-free society"—through the regulation of foodstuffs, for example—which is impossible. And students are given a "Holiday Inn version of history" which is "sanitized for your protection," he said.

A vital result of American's lives of illusion is the decline in the nation's intelligence activities, Liddy said, asserting that the decline is the result of illusions about the natures of man, the world, spying and the free press and that is has weakened the nation, in one instance by leading to this country's shutoff by other nations from participation in cooperative espionage.

"The world happens to be a very bad neighborhood at about two thirty in the morning," Liddy said. And the United States is increasingly perceived as a "little old lady with a fat pocketbook" in the neighborhood rather than as an "offensive tackle for the Green Bay Packers" carrying a "baseball bat." . . . "and a Thompson submachine gun."

If no covert intelligence branch of government exists, Liddy said, the nation has only two alternatives: to do nothing or to go to war. Intelligence provides a third option.

The Central Intelligence Agency has been "gutted" he said, and despite the Reagan administration's expressed interest in revitalizing it, change "cannot come immediately."

Living illusions and making decisions on them can be remedied if we "call things what they are, Liddy suggested, such an approach gives "precision in thought" and a foundation for proceeding further.

Of Watergate, Liddy said that the break-ins into the Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate complex—unlike that investigation of Daniel Ellsberg and the burglary of his psychiatrist's office, which constituted a "legitimate national security operation within the power of the president to authorize"—had nothing to do with national security, but were "purely political intelligence gathering operation, the same kind of thing that goes on every four years . . . when the presidency of the United States is contested for in this country."

In 1979, she was promoted to the senior White House staff as Assistant to the President. She was responsible for political liaison and women's issues.

Halloween '81

Halloween in Hattiesburg wouldn't have been the same without the USM students and faculty alike celebrating October 31 as if it were a major holiday. Campus masquerade parties and swaps, the UAC horror movie presentation of "Halloween," a Halloween carnival in the Union with a kissing booth, fortune telling, sponge throws, face painting and a spook house, and a special Halloween pep rally prepared students for the bewitching weekend.

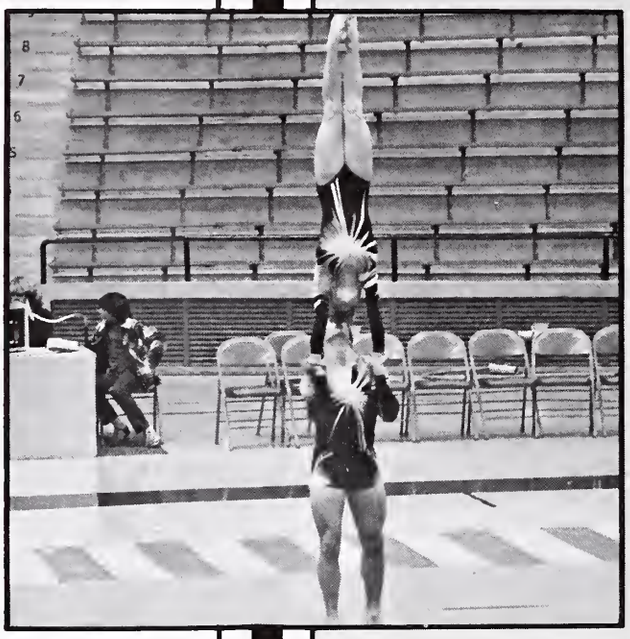

Saturday, October 31 held many options for students. Area party places held costume contests, the Hattiesburg Jaycees and WHSY radio sponsored a haunted house, and movie theaters showed midnight thrillers like "Halloween II." Southern students, with their costumes and parties and a Golden Eagle football shut-out over North Texas State rounded out the holiday, and gave Hattiesburg a Halloween they wouldn't forget.

As USM students and alumni converged on Hattiesburg on October 2-3 for the 1981-82 Homecoming proceedings under the theme "USM Strikes Gold—The Rush Is On!", the various organizations on campus began creating displays to coincide with that slogan.

Excitement mounted throughout the week as those on campus readied themselves for the game Saturday night against Texas-Arlington and the festivities that would accompany it.

It was Thursday of Homecoming week that work began in earnest on the displays that speckled the campus. Dormitory bathrooms may have run dangerously low on toilet paper as the artisans of refuse molded the array of paper, glue and spray paint into marvels of collegiate ingenuity.

Friday night proved to be the test of endurance for many of the crepe paper composers as they stuffed, glued and painted throughout the evening and into the morning. Traffic grew heavier on the avenue of the campus Saturday morning as cars snaked their way across campus giving the passengers a glimpse at the display mastery Southerners have honed to a fine edge.

Those capturing recognition during the pre-game Homecoming festivities Saturday for excellence in displays included: Sigma Alpha Epsilon as overall winner. For Beauty were Pulley Hall, Mississippi Hall, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi Sigma, Kappa Delta, Delta Gamma, Botegha, and Air Force ROTC. THE COACH

by Judy Day

Since Coach Bobby Collins has come to USM, the Golden Eagles have made steady progress towards a consistently winning football team. In an interview with Coach Collins on November 18, 1981 directly following the USM slaughter of nationally ranked Florida State (58-14) and immediately proceeding the crushing defeat of the Eagles 1981 season at the hands of Louisville, Collins discussed the Eagles' seasons on the gridiron—past, present, and future.

SOUTHERNER: The first thing we have to ask is how 'bout them Eagles?

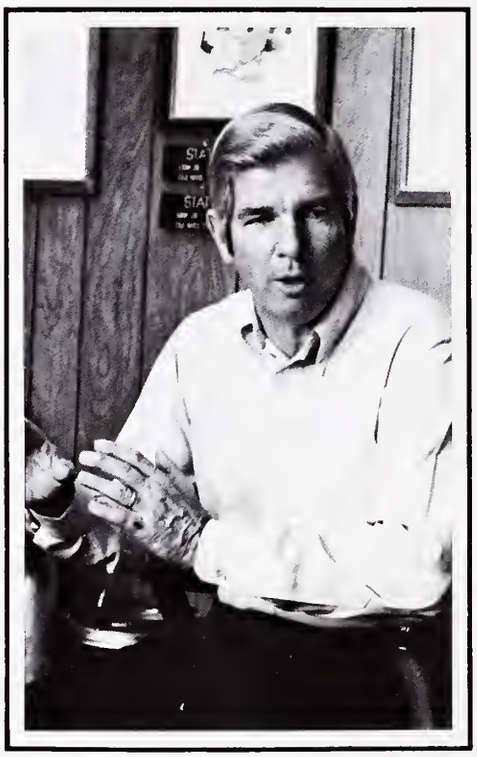

COACH COLLINS: How 'bout them Eagles? Well, I think that as far as the football team is concerned, we're just so happy and proud for them because they've worked hard and deserve the recognition they're receiving. I think we can turn right around and say that we're happy and proud of our supportive students as well. Averaging a year ago, 7,000 students attended each game—that's 7% of our students seeing us play and I think that's most important.

SOUTHERNER: The Eagles have really given the students something to see lately, too . . .

COACH COLLINS: Well, I think that's important. And we said that we've promised that we could build a team that would be exciting and a team that would earn the support and the backing of our students and our people. I think that the football team has certainly done that. But I don't think that they could've done it alone.

SOUTHERNER: I know coaching has to enter in there, too. If I were in your shoes right now, I'd be a pretty happy man.

COACH COLLINS: I am. But again I can see so many people that have played such an important part in it . . . and I'd mention them—the football players, number one, the support of the students, administration, faculty and staff.

SOUTHERNER: Well, how does it feel? National ranking and the tremendous record you have so far this year. It must be an impressive thing for you.

COACH COLLINS: I think it is. The thing that makes us feel so good about the whole situation is the fact that we've had to struggle. It started with a situation in 1975—we didn't have a stadium. We had to play all eleven football games on the road. Then, to build a tremendous on campus facility and play nationally ranked teams such as Mississippi, Florida State and Alabama, hold our own, and then be recognized by people throughout the country in the polls gives a super feeling.

I go back and give an awful lot of creidt to the football players because they put an awful lot of work into this, they're a very dedicated group of young men.

SOUTHERNER: I know when you came here in 1975 you set up goals for yourself. Do you think this year's team is indicative to the kinds of teams you've wanted to have?

COACH COLLINS: Basically we want a team that is constant—that you'll be reading about them in the top 20, that on a consistent basis you'll see us appear on regional television and on a consistant bases you'll see us having enough wins at the end of the year that the bowl people will be looking. That has to be our goals. Of course our ultimate goal has always been to win them all and I guess and in the same token to be ranked number one in the nation.

I think the thing that some people don't realize is that here at Southern we qualify to be national champs, we can be national champs. We can have a Heisman Trophy winner—we can do anything that we want to do because we do qualify. So, we set these goals and we work hard to attain them.

SOUTHERNER: You mentioned a minute ago that USM can have a Heisman winner—how do you go about coaching and training a talent like Reggie Collier?

COACH COLLINS: Well, the training and the coaching is the easiest part—I think the hard part is getting him on campus. I'm not saying the hard part is getting Reggie Collier on campus, but getting a talent such as Reggie because there is no doubt that he's a super young man—an outstanding football player, tremendous leader—usually that goes on in a recruiting war. We're very fortunate to have Reggie here and I think that now he's more or less proved himself. I think an all-out campaign can really put him in the Heisman race next year. There's no doubt in my mind that he's deserving—I think it is a challenge for all of us to promote him. Again, we've got to give him a good record as far as our wins to give him that opportunity.

SOUTHERNER: Do you think now that we're nationally ranked we stand a better chance of having less trouble recruiting talent like his?

COACH COLLINS: I think it certainly attracts the talents throughout the state and the surrounding areas when they can recognize you and your university when you go into their homes. They've heard of players such as Reggie Collier, Sammy Winder, Gerald Baylus, George Tillman—then it's easier to go in and sit down in the living room and talk to these young men about your university. I think we have a top product here we're trying to sell.

SOUTHERNER: How do you explain the turnabout in the Southern team in the last few years?

COACH COLLINS: It just didn't happen this year. We must remember that we went after that 2-9 season, we lost nine in a row. Later on we got the Mississippi State forfeit, 3-8 after that year. We had records like 6-6, 7-4, 6-4-1, 9-3. So it's been a steady process, taking steps in the right direction, building a solid foundation, recruiting and keeping that talent coming in . . . This year should help us in the fact that year in and year out we expect to have this solid program that we can compete as say one of the top 20 teams in the nation and get the recognition and respect that we think we've earned and deserved. But it's been a slow process and we think it's a solid foundation. We've got a solid foundation now and we're gonna be a pretty good football team in the next few years.

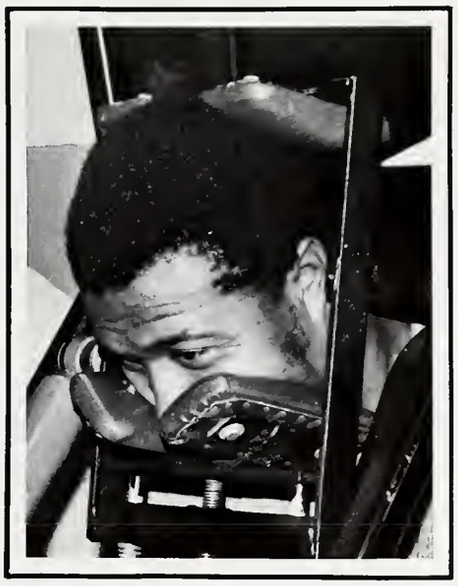

* EDITOR'S NOTE: Following the fall semester, Bobby Collins accepted the head football coaching position at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. Replacing Collins in time for recruiting and spring training is Jim Carmody, formerly a member of the coaching staff here at the University of Southern Mississippi and former defensive line coach for the Buffalo Bills of Buffalo, New York.

PREPARATION: A YEAR-ROUND THING

"Preparing for football games is a year-round thing," says Bill Clay, defensive back coach. Winter is a time for building; Spring, for preparing; Summer, for anticipating; and Fall is for playing."

Lifting weights, distance running and agility drilling are included in off-season weight-training from January through March. This builds up strength, said Clay, which is the mark of a good athlete. Twenty days of Spring Practice include evaluations of offensive, defensive, and kicking games as well as moving players into their right positions. Summer is no vacation even though the team may not be at school. A six-week workout schedule is taken home and completed prior to reporting in August. Then, players come back to 2-a-days (morning and afternnon practices) and an 11 o'clock curfew.

During the season Monday begins at 3 p.m. with a 30 minute meeting with one of the nine position coaches. Then players put in one hour of practice, 30 minutes of weightlifting and 30 minutes of watching films of the opposition. Tuesday through Thursday, the team is coached on their game plan in such areas as down distance tendencies, practice calls and running plays. Fridays are usually spent traveling. First thing on Saturday morning the squad meets for 15 minutes followed by the traditional pre-game meal of steak and eggs. Next, the players are taped by trainers and then meet again with Coach Collins another 15 minutes where every important phase of the game is discussed. Then off to the stadium to get dressed and warm-ups. "We plan that they reach their peak at the time of the game," says Clay.

The success of this year's football team may be attribued to taking one game at a time and concentrating on that and that only, says Clay. "The most important game is this Saturday," he says. The coaches also work all year long, just as the players do. If they are not analyzing the opposition and preparing the players, they are recruiting. Clay says the coaches don't get to enjoy the victories as the fans do because after one game, they come home and directly begin working on another. Clay says they emphasize to the players that all they have to do is give 100% and the score will take care of itself.

A SCREAMER SEASON

The Golden Eagle football team ended its 1981 season sporting a 9-1-1 record and a national ranking, along with individual, school, and national records.

The Eagles opened the season by defeating the University of Southwest Louisiana 33-7 at home in M.M. Roberts Stadium before a crowd of 23,567. At first concerned over senior losses, the Golden Eagles wasted no time in proving their capabilities. The Nasty Bunch came back after halftime to hold the USL offense to only 37 yards in the entire second half. USM's total yardage for the game was 401 yards on 83 plays as compared to the Cajun's 174 yards on 60 plays—a figure as decisive as the final score.

The Golden Eagles continued to dominate on the field in the match against Tulane. Roberts Stadium's second largest crowd ever, 32,756 spectators, watched as USM rode over Tulane 21-3. The third game of the season against the University of Richmond proved to be a closer game than the first two. The Eagles traveled to Richmond to edge against the Spiders 17-10.

The Homecoming game against the Mavericks of the University of Texas—Arlington was stunning in terms of high scores and record setting statistics. With a record total of 630 offensive yards, the Golden Eagles ran over the Mavericks 52-9. On the second play of the game, quarterback Reggie Collier ran for an 80-yard touchdown. Tailback Sammy Winder scored his 31st career touchdown, setting a school record for Most Career Touchdowns. A Maverick field goal of 51 yards became the longest field goal ever made in Roberts Stadium. The Golden Eagles' performance during this Homecoming game kept the Eagle Fever alive for the remainder of the season.

On October 10, Coach Bobby Collins and the team traveled to Brimingham to meet Bear Bryant and the Crimson Tide of Alabama. USM proved to be an equal match for Alabama as they evened the score in the last seconds of the game with a 13-13 tie.

Rainstorms following Southern to their next two games seemed not to bother the Golden Eagles as they remained undefeated. A mainly defensive battle with the Tigers of Memphis State at the Liberty Bowl Stadium in Tennessee, the game was scattered with penalties and turnovers. The Eagles came out on top in the end with a 10-0 victory.

After an open date, the Golden Eagles traveled to Denton, Texas on Halloween to take on the Eagles of North Texas State University. The afternoon game was played on a field soaked from rainstorms which continued throughout the game. Stadium lights were needed to overcome the darkness created by the rainclouds. Again, the Golden Eagles seemed not to mind these weather conditions as they shut out NTSU 22-0.

The Eagles were finally ranked by the national polls after their seventh game. Being the only southeastern college to still be undefeated, USM was listed as No. 20 on the AP national college football poll.

But being no. 20 was not good enough for the Golden Eagles. The following week they traveled to Jackson with the intentions of unranking 15th ranked Mississippi State. And they did it in what was probably the most exciting, if not frightening, victory of the season. The Nasty Bunch held the Bulldog offense to two field goals as the Eagles pulled off a 7-6 victory before a crowd of 64,112—a state and Mississippi Memorial stadium record. USM moved to no. 14 in the ratings with a 7-0-1 record.

"Florida State, don't be blue, Mississippi State got unranked, too!" seemed to be the theme for the regionally televised game against the Florida State Seminoles.

If you were ever sitting on the east side of M.M. Roberts Stadium you can't help but notice him. His black pants, gold vest and button and ticket littered hat really stand out.

Two Bits: A Tradition

Ray Crawford, a '64 finance and insurance graduate, enthuses the crowds by leading various sections in the traditional cheer "Two Bits."

Originally Crawford had a partner, Joe Starling, and they were called "Two Bits and a Quarter." Both insurance men in Florida, they cheered for Florida State, and were just part of the crowd. A transfer brought them to Hattiesburg and USM.

Both were surprised at the lack of support for the football team. Two Bits has been dressing up in his black and gold ever since. Joe Starling, unfortunately, was transfered back to Florida.

Two Bits explained, "I am trying to promote school spirit, and show that the students and alumni have something to be proud of."

With a son who is a Freshman at USM and married, Two Bits has attended all the USM home games and in-state games for five consecutive years. He also attends as many away games as possible.

He supports the Eagles in other ways too. He is membership chariman of the Big Gold Club, a member of the Hardwood and Century Clubs and USM Alumni Association.

Two Bits receives a list of recruits for the football team every year. He sends the recruit and his family an open invitation to come visit him any time. He has helped football players by giving them money to buy extra clothes, giving the Eagle players motivation speeches before and after the game, and just being there to listen to their problems.

Amos Fowler, a '78 graduate and a member of the Detroit Lions was quoted in the book Great American Dreams as saying of Two Bits and a Quarter, "These two guys would come around the team and everything else and they really got into it. They invited players over to their houses, they threw parties for the team, they would help the team get ready for a game."

Two Bits has become a tradition at Southern. As a result, Children ask him for his autograph, he speaks for local clubs and leads cheers by request at area pep rallies.

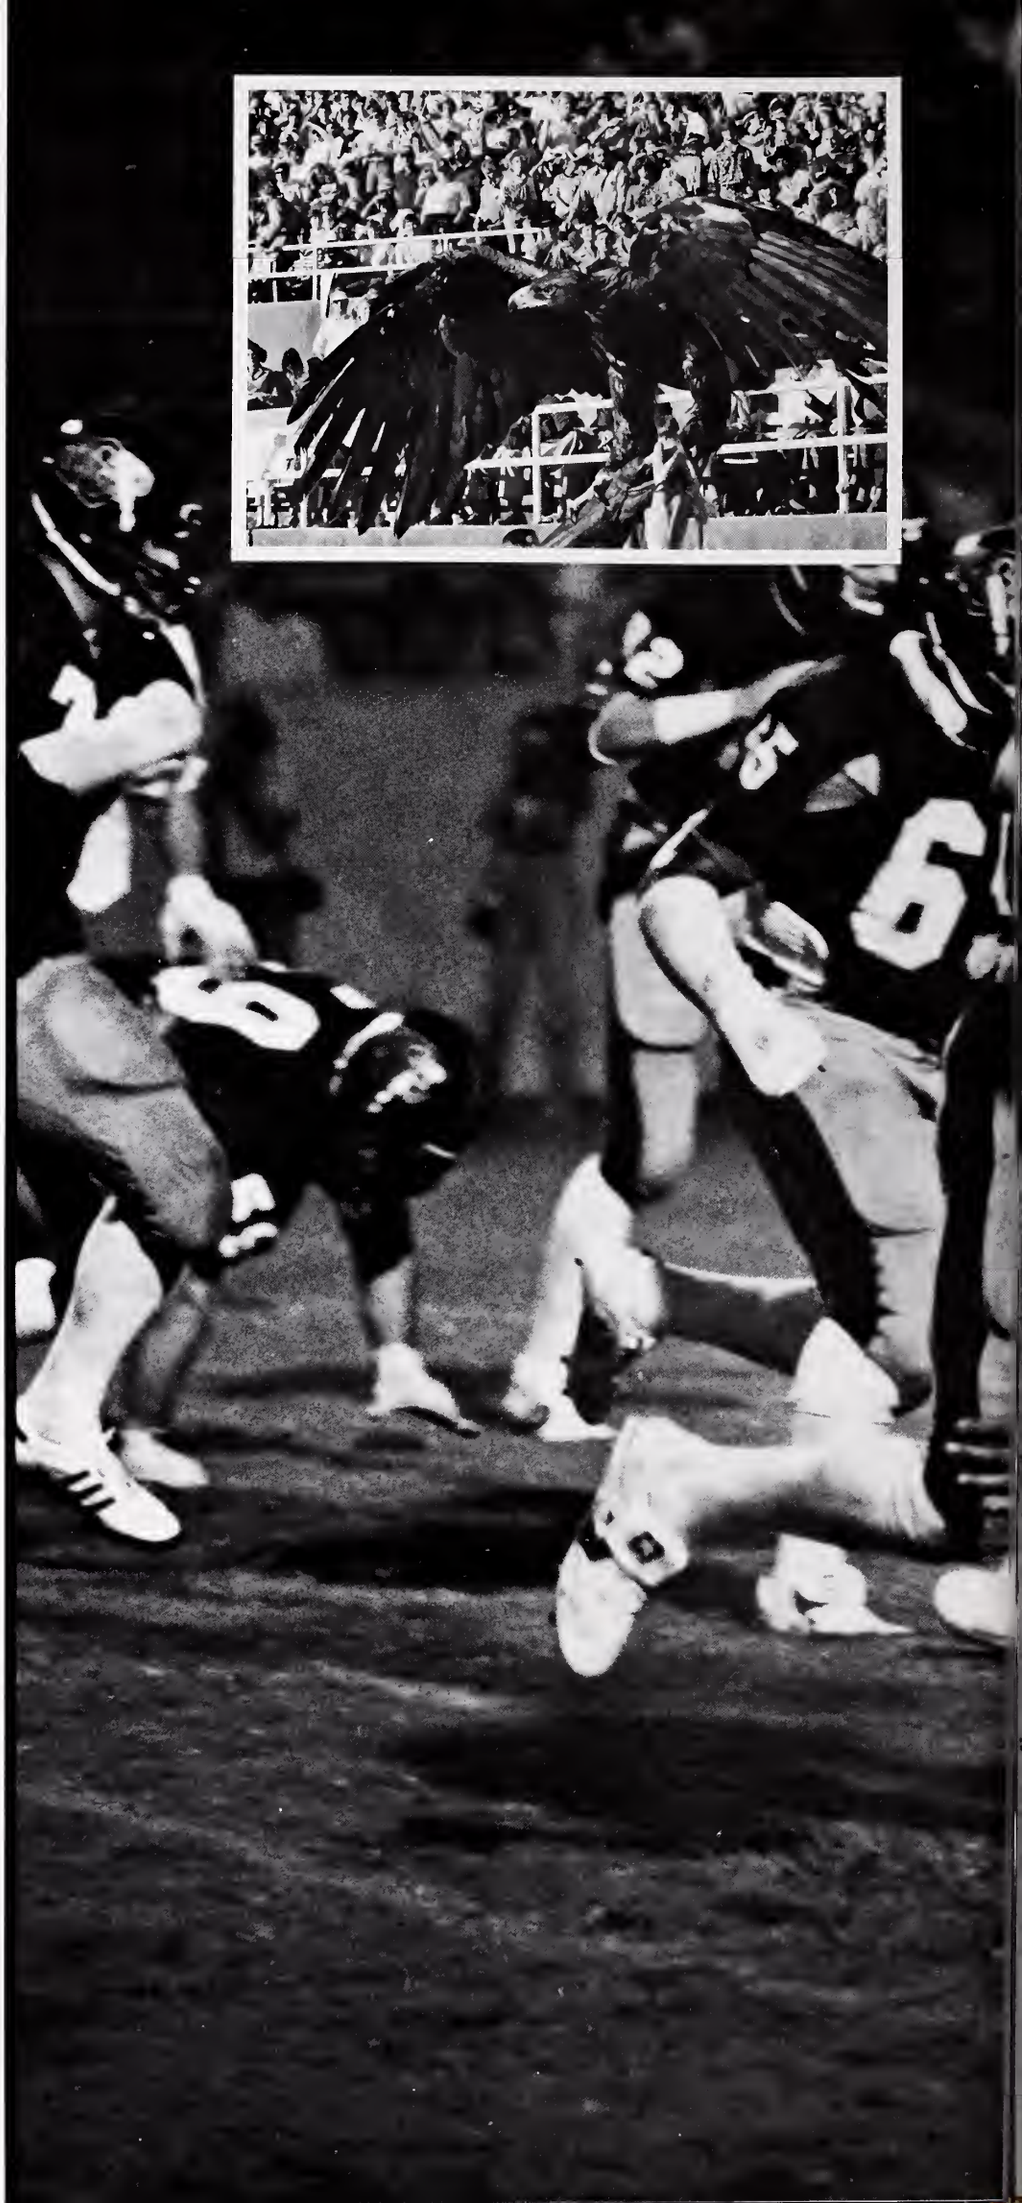

As a USM student, Crawford was a Dean's List scholar, and a member of Delta Sigma Pi, Phi Epsilon, College Civitans, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

His loyalty is proven by his office and home. They are decorated with game footballs, pictures of past teams, buttons, and bumper stickers.

Two Bits doesn't believe Eagle Fever is a fad, and says of the football team, "The Eagles have proven that cheering has been a worthwhile project to me. Win, lose, or draw, it is up to us as fans to prove to people we are deserving of the recognition we want."

What does Two Bits hope for the future? He wants more national recognition, and he says to the football fans, "There is a way to be a football fan; don't cut other teams down, just be comfortable and we'll prove we are legitimate contenders in the state."

Two Bits, the Golden Eagles' number one fan, has helped not just the football team, but also the fans pride in the team, become a tradition at USM.

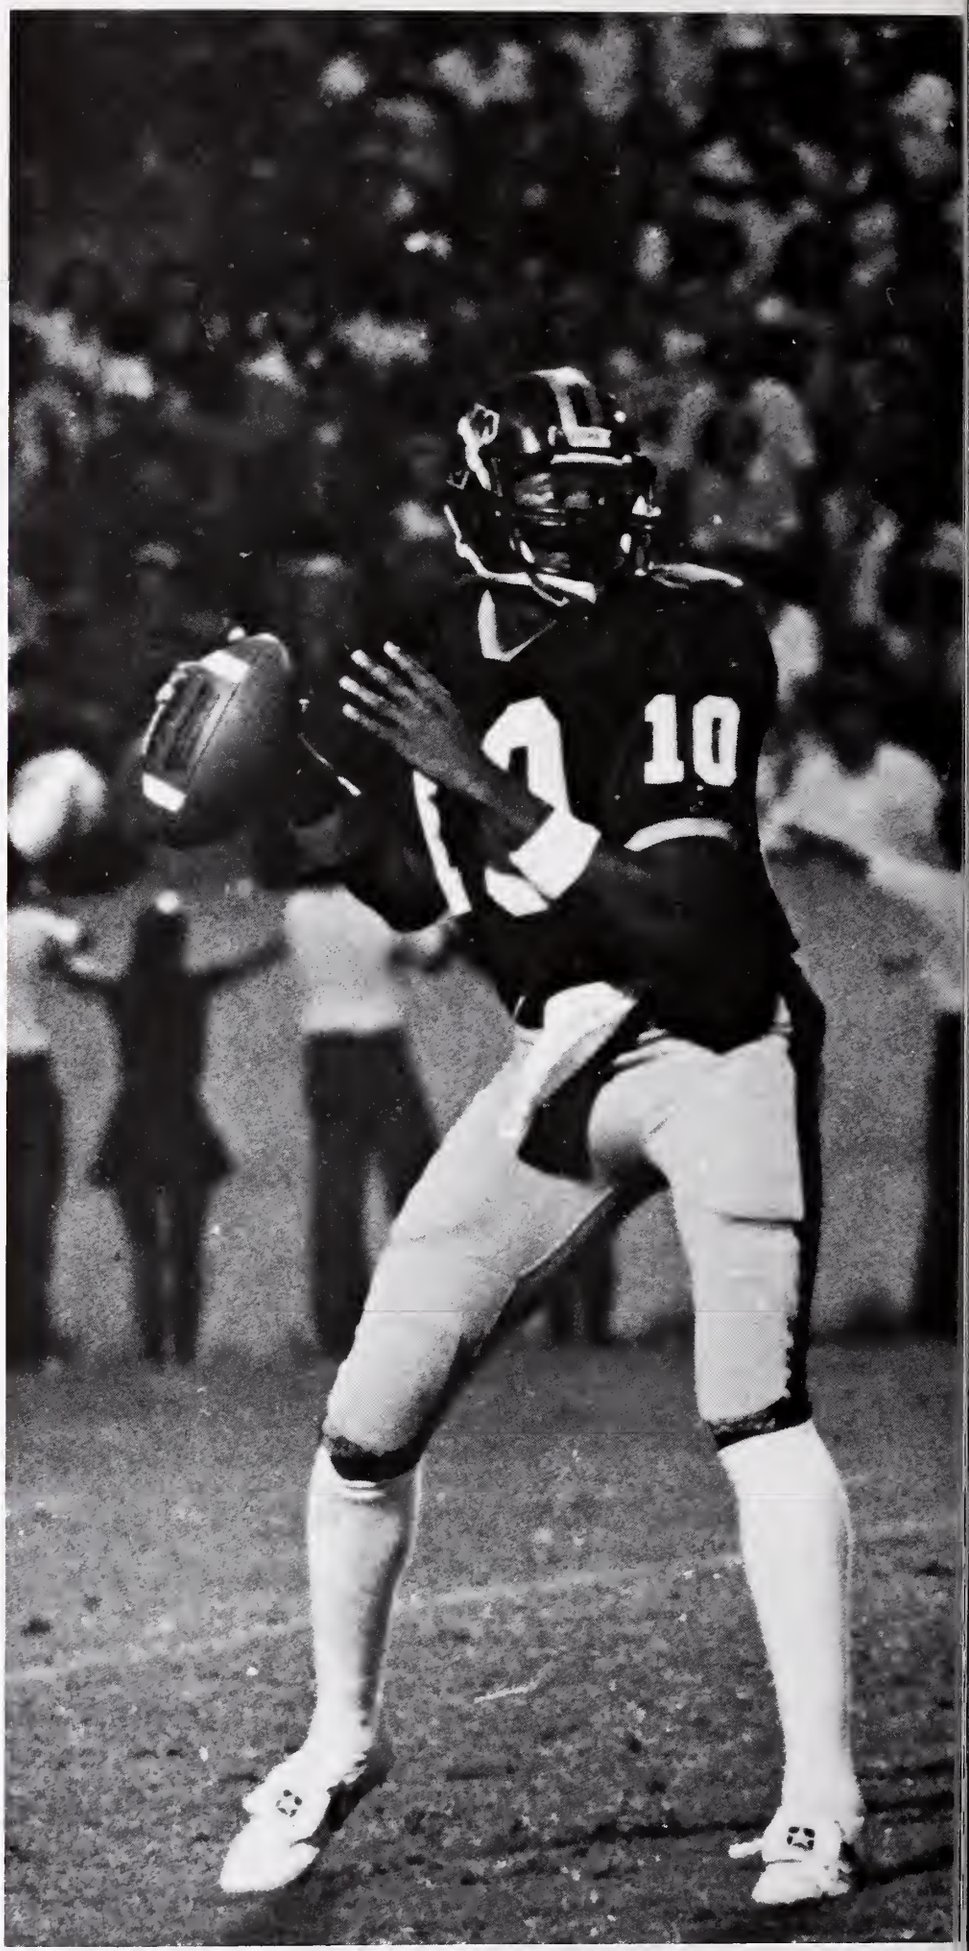

The Eagles, also competing with the landing of the Space Shuttle Columbia, in what was expected to be a close game, rolled over 20th ranked FSU 58-14. USM shoved FSU out of the Top 20 while making way for their highest rating of the season: no. 9 in the nation. Talk about bowl bids began. It seemed that the Golden Eagles couldn't be stopped.

But they were stopped temporarily Nov. 21, in Louisville, Kentucky by the Louisville Cardinals. In a frozen match, the Cardinals held the Golden Eagles to a 13-10 loss before the Eagles's second regional television audience. The 8-1-1 USM dropped from its Top Ten position to no. 17. Even so, the Golden Eagles were offered—and accepted—a Tangerine bowl bid.

The Golden Eagles ended their 1981 season on a winning note as they ran over the Lamar Cardinals 45-14. The first quarter ended with a 14-14 tie which made many fans wonder if this might be a closer game than was expected.

The Eagles pulled ahead, however, in the remainder of the game. In this match several records were set for the Eagles. Reggie Collier became the first player in NCAA history to rush and pass for over 1000 yards in one season. Collier totaled 1004 aerial yards for the season, while rushing for 1005 total yards this year. Sammy Winder also crossed the 1000 yard mark for the season as he totaled 1029 rushing yards for the year. Winder also set school records for having the most career touchdowns with 39 (that's 273 points), and most career carries of 736. Ricky Floyd rushed for 105 yards against the Cardinals, making this the first time three backs ever gained over 100 yards each in the same game. The Nasty Bunch ranked first in the nation in scoring defense, allowing an average of 8.1 points per game—89 points for the season.

The USM Golden Eagles ended their regular season with a no. 18 national ranking.

Bill Goodrich

Voice of the Golden Eagles

Who is THE VOICE OF THE GOLDEN EAGLES? He's actually an avid Eagle fan behind a microphone "who gets as excited as the coaches."

Bill Goodrich, formerly the voice of the Ole Miss Rebels and other teams such as the Clemson Tigers, is a veteran radio/TV announcer who not only co-hosts and narrates the "Bobby Collins Show," but is also a part of USM's Public Relations Department as Radio/TV director. His idea for the voice of USM to be employed by the University on a full time basis has set a trend for many other schools.

Goodrich said USM is unique in that we have our own radio programs and TV interviews done right on campus by our own people. Southern is the only school he knows of in the state that uses a Teaching Learning Resource Center (TLRC) such as the one on campus for this service.

Gooodrich travels with the football and basketball teams not only announcing the games, but sees that the radio networks pick up on the games as well. "This year we had an average of 27 networks carrying the football games which is up over the 10 we had in 1972," said Goodrich, "and there are approximately 10 networks that carry basketball."

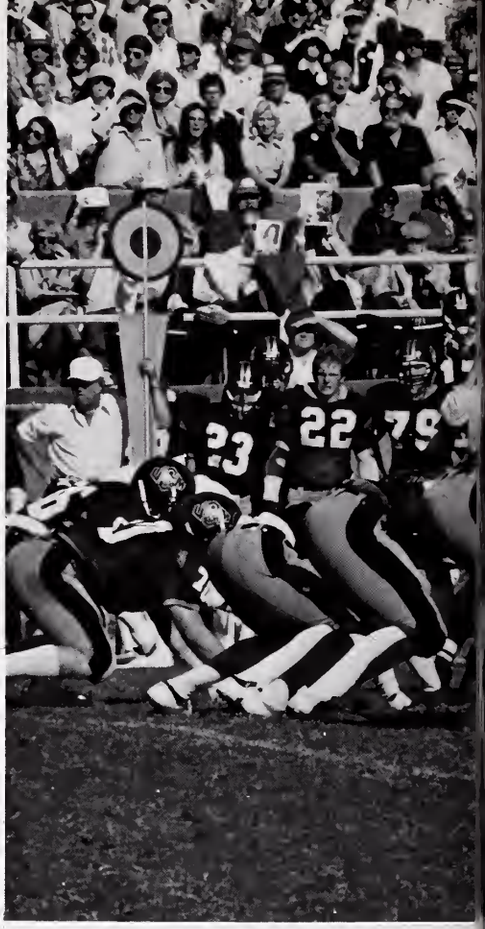

In addition to these responsibilities, Goodrich interviews the coaches on a regular basis, makes up an overview newsletter and film containing highlights of the sports year. These are often used in recruiting. He said that he works very closely with the players themselves and likes "getting to know them and their families and girlfriends. "I even give them special nicknames."

Which sport is his favorite? Goodrich couldn't say. Normally it would be basketball, but the football games are exciting offering extra things such as the band, cheerleaders, and Dixie Darlings he said.

After leaving radio for six months prior to coming to Hattiesburg and working for WFOR, Goodrich siad he couldn't stand it; announcing here had become a part of him. "I've never been happier in my life, I feel part of the teams and of the school."

Goodrich explained how he announced the football games. Three men are involved: an engineering coordinator, an analyst and the announcer. All three act as spotters. John Cox and Vic Purvis serve as the coordinator and analyst while Goodrich does the broadcasts.

Goodrich got into announcing while attending the University of Wisconsin on a boxing scholarship. He sold advertising and did play-by-plays for a radio station just after he got out of the Army. Then he came to Jackson and served as Sports Director at WLBT while "moonlighting" as the Voice of the Rebels. He left Mississippi for a while to work in South Carolina and Kentucky, but found his way back to Mississippi and "Woo Hoo Mercy," just look what happened.

The Tangerine Bowl

by Shelia Skipper

The Golden Eagles traveled to Orlando, Florida, Tuesday, December 15, for a week of gala activities at the Tangerine Bowl, highlighted on the 19th by a game with the Missouri Tigers.

The Eagles (9-1-1) met their match in the defensive battle with the Tigers. The Tigers, (7-4) began their lead in the first quarter and continued to dominate on the field throughout most of the game as they contained the Eagle offense and broke the Nasty Bunch defense.

USM's first touchdown came in the third quarter after an interception by Eagle sophomore cornerback Bruce Miller. Miller also received the Most Valuable Defense Award.

USM's long awaited comeback came late in the 4th quarter as senior reserve quarterback Davy Sellers replaced Reggie Collier who left the game with a neck injury. On Seller's second play of the game, he completed a long pass from the Eagle 26 to Louis Lipps on the Missouri 40. Lipps carried the ball in for USM's second touchdown of the evening.

This new burst of energy revived a few spirits in the freezing stands, but with only 1:03 left in the game, time ran out before the Eagles could pull ahead for a win. The final score: Missouri 19, USM 17.

BASKETBALL

by Rachel Tullos

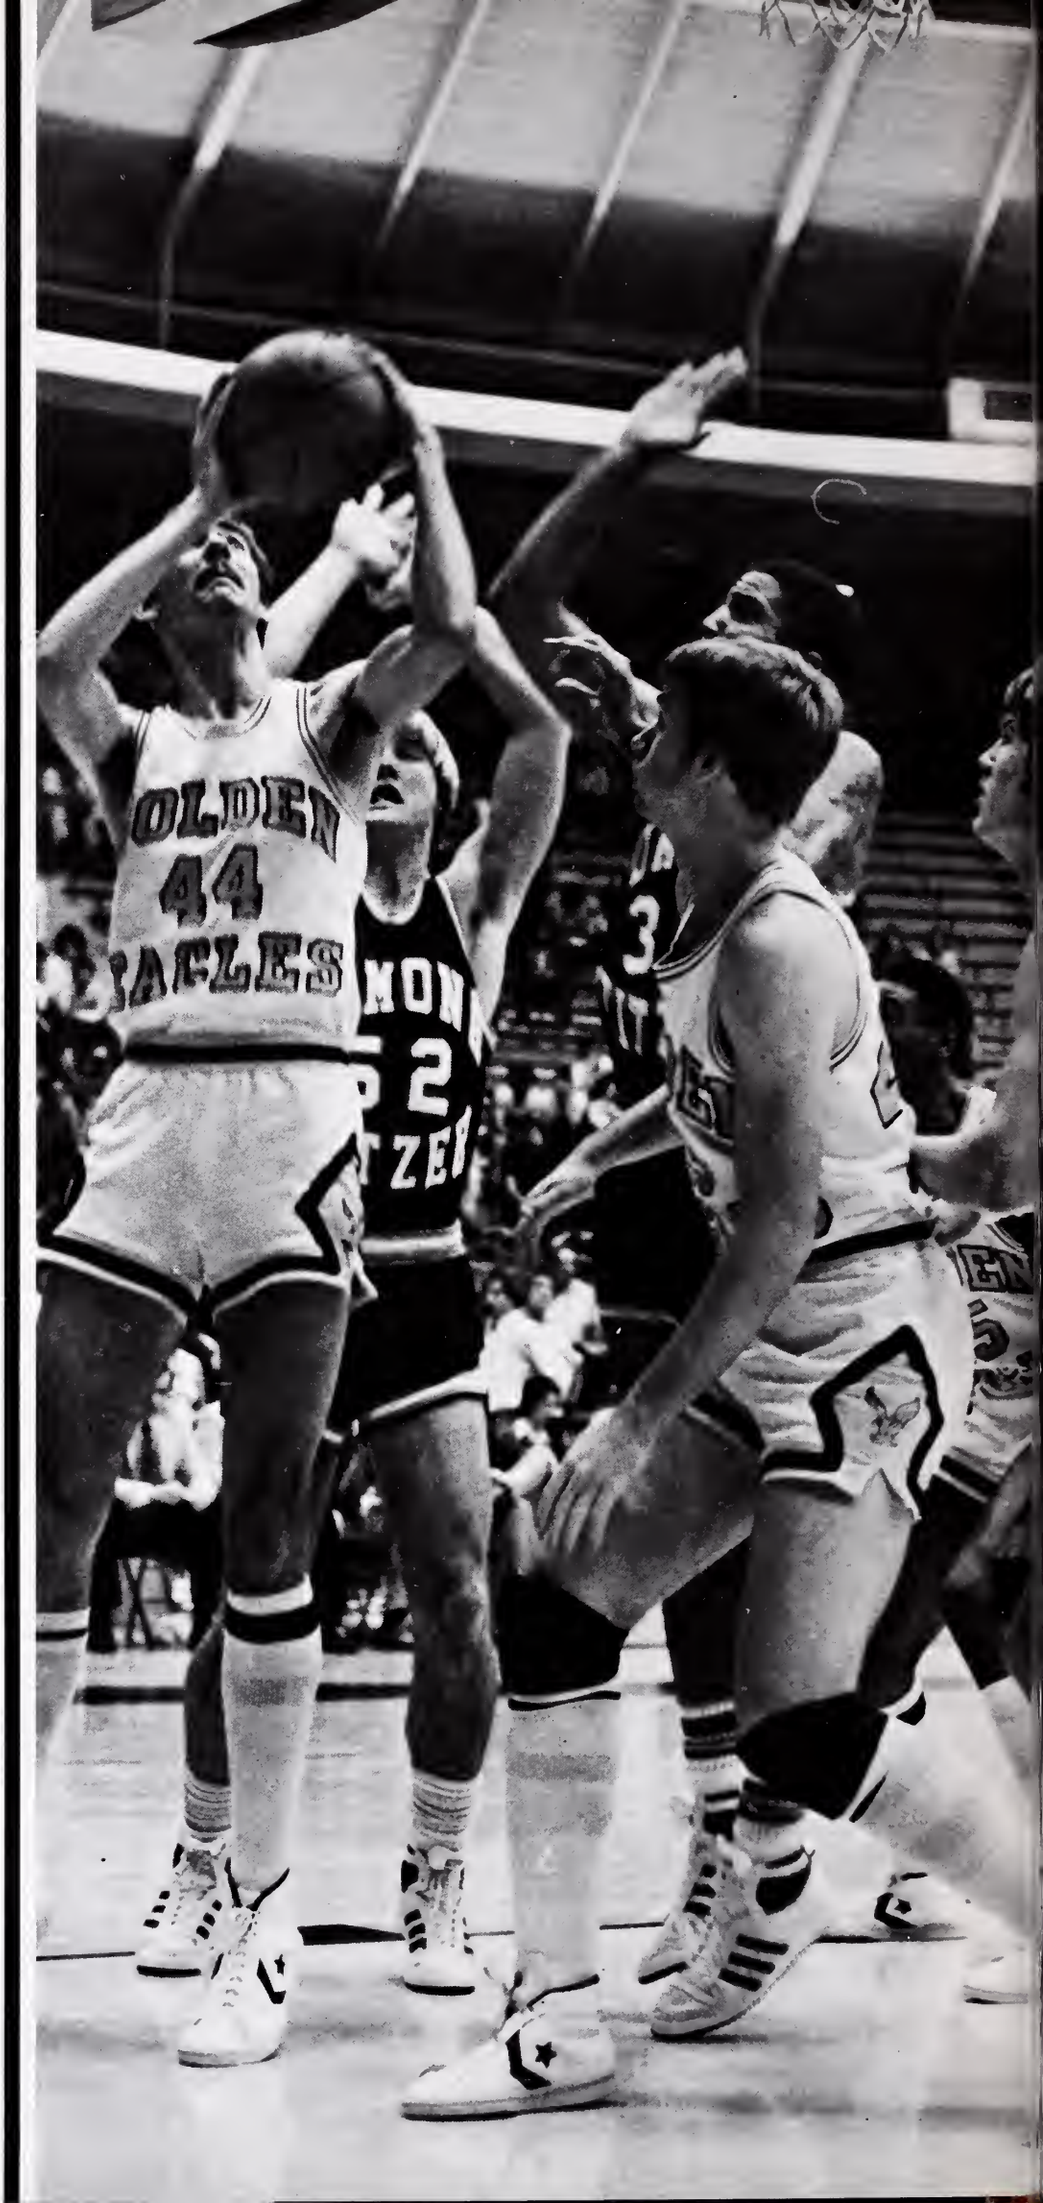

When a loyal fan of USM thinks of USM's sports record this year, the outstanding 9-1-1 football season is hard to surpass but the basketball season could be considered a great asset to the university. With excitement still in the air from the Tangerine Bowl appearance, the fans were fired up for once again another year of the "Golden Eagle".

The first game of the new season matched USM against Missouri-St. Louis in which 8,961 screaming fans attended. This game was a part of a sports doubleheader on campus featuring the first part as the Eagles defeated Lamar 45-14.

Starters for the Golden Eagles were guards Edgar Eason and Curtis Green, forwards Joe "Awesome" Dawson and Deora Marsh and center Carl Mitchell.

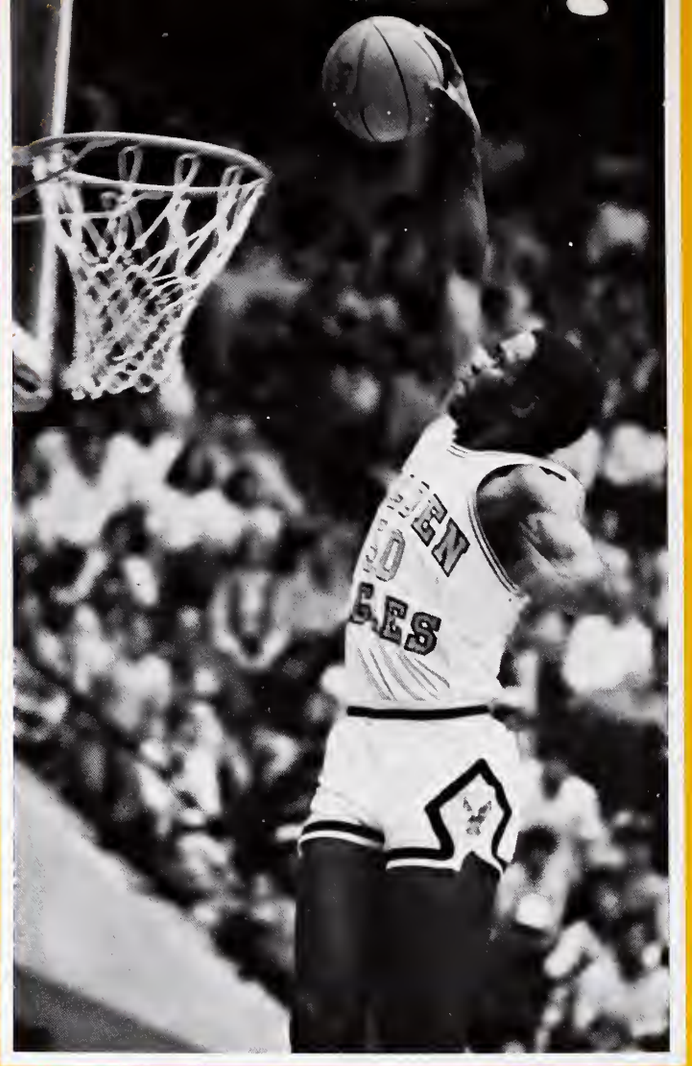

The Golden Eagles jumped out to a commanding 17-4 lead in the first half only to see it disappear to 19-15 after Turk substituted. The Rivermen never let the Eagles build a big lead and at the halftime buzzer the score was 38-31.

In the final twenty minutes the Eagles dominated the game and with 9:35 left on the clock USM had a 21 point lead. USM went on to win by twenty 91-71.

Interview:

M.K. Turk

by Susan Wolfe

SOUTHERNER: In your six years as head coach at USM, what do you feel is your greatest accomplishment?

TURK: The greatest accomplishment that we've had to date is last year's team participating in the National Invitational Tournament. It was the first time USM has ever gone to a post-season tournament since becoming a division 1 major university in the mid-sixties.

SOUTHERNER: What do you feel is different about last year's team and this year's team?

TURK: The teams are similar in style of play and many other aspects. Our 1980-1981 team was a great road team and found the way to win close ball games. This season's team has experienced extreme difficulty in winning close ball games on the road and therein lies the difference in the record. We have lost five games by a total of eight points and we've lost three games by two points and two games by one point, so obviously, if we had been able to win the close ballgames in key situations, we could have a very outstanding record and at this point could be riding high. As it works out, we are currently at the 500 mark.

SOUTHERNER: Tell me more about this year's team, what have you concentrated on most?

TURK: This team has gone against the most difficult and challenging schedule in the history on the University. We have played eight teams that participated in post-season tournaments last year. Of the nine losses we have to date, four of them have been to teams that are ranked in the top twenty. So obviously the strength of our schedule has been the greatest detriment that we have faced. We have concentrated on team play, unselfishness, and each player trying to reach his full potential in each and every game.

SOUTHERNER: What about specific strengths and weaknesses?

TURK: Each team has specific strengths and weaknesses. I would say that on the floor a weakness of this team has been our inability to rebound. Joe Dawson is our leading rebounder and he does a tremendous job, but we need to get more out of our other players as far as rebounding is concerned. A couple of guys have also had a bad year shooting, so I would say that rebounding and inconsistency in field goal percentage have been two factors that have been detrimental to this team.

SOUTHERNER: What do you consider your greatest honor in your career as a basketball coach? I know that last year you were named Collegiate Coach of the Year in Mississippi and this year placed second in that same category, plus the invitation to the post-season tournament, but what do you feel is your greatest accomplishment?

TURK: Well, since coming to USM, I suppose that, so far as me individually, the greatest honor would be being selected as the Collegiate Coach of the Year.

SOUTHERNER: What about the future?

TURK: I see Golden Eagle athletics continuing to soar to the top as we continue to grow; as we upgrade our academic standards and our basketball goals and objectives. We will continue to get better caliber of athletes who will be facing a more difficult and challenging schedule. Greater things are ahead.

SOUTHERNER: Is there anything you would like to add?

TURK: I am proud to be a part of this great university and the growth that it is experiencing here in the athletic department. It is most rewarding to me. I could not be happier anywhere else.

Pamona Patzer College proved an easy victim for the hungry Eagles and provided several peaks of the season in the 107-71 whipping. USM made 43 field-goals. Twenty-one free throw points were added to the scoreboard as well as a season high 62 rebounds and (so far) the highest amount of points in the game were tallied.

The Eagles third game at Reed Green coliseum added another mark in the win column. Southern beat U.S. International 89-62 in front of 4,000 screaming fans.

This season had a much more difficult schedule than ever before. Warning signs were evident in road game number 1. The Eagles lost a close, defensive heartbreaker to Southwestern Louisiana, 64-66. Problems occurred in the lineup, and Coach M.K. Turk began trying new combinations of players to help spark the game.

Then the Eagles came back home to Reed Green and won a decisive victory, 60-47, over Louisiana Tech. USM struggled with free throws and shooting. Strong defense and the home crowd, a definite advantage, aided the Eagles in their win.

Southern had a well-deserved break of 11 days before playing against McNeese State. The Eagles won easily, 86-62. Two days later the Eagles traveled to the Cotton States Classic. The road once again proved to be a jinx. The Eagles were soundly beaten by Alabama-Birmingham, 71-56, their first game in the Atlanta based event. The consolation game was disappointing—Northeastern University pulled out and 82-81 victory in a close battle.

Now 5-3 into the season, the Eagles suffered their third consecutive loss when they played Arkansas at Pine Bluff.

USM hit the road for its first game after the Holidays. Southern lost another close defensive battle to North Carolina State, 46-45. North Carolina at Charlotte also defeated the stumbling Eagles 74-70, in front of the NC crowd of 2,140 fans.

The Eagles came home needing a victory. USM played outstanding ball against Tulane in the first quarter, led by Curtis Green and Joe Dawson. Building up to a 19 point lead at one time, USM's poor rebounding and careless play allowed the Green Wave to roll over the Eagles in a crushing 60-58 victory. Fredonia State gave a much needed win to the Eagles where they had their best field-goal percentage (53.2; 42 of 79 attempts) in the 88-65 romping.

The Eagles, having a rough season, went to Louisiana Tech hoping to recreate the earlier victory. Fate was not kind, and the Eagles again lost a close match, 58-60.

The home game regularly scheduled against the University of New Orleans was moved to the Gulf Coast Coliseum in Biloxi because of delayed registration due to bad weather. USM defeated UNO 73-66. The Privateers pulled within two points late in the game, but a foul on Curtis Green and the resulting free throws gave the Eagles the added spark to charge ahead to victory.

The Eagles came back home and played an outstanding defensive game against the Gamecocks of South Carolina. The final score was Eagles 76, Gamecocks 67. South Carolina had a tremendous size advantage, but Joe Dawson and Carl Mitchell scored the needed points, and Edgar Eason, Curtis Green, and Larry Boyd handled the ball in the welcomed victory.

The Eagles took an even 8-8 record to Georgia State and managed a win of 61 over 54 even though they shot a poor 41.5 per cent. The poor shooting percentage came back to haunt the Eagles in a tough loss to Virginia Commonwealth.

The first minutes of the Pan American-USM game were nailbiting. The lead constantly fluctuated between teams. Joe Dawson scored his 1,547 career point and became the third leading scorer in USM history and was presented the game ball. Southern won the fast-breaking contest 101-70.

USM compiled a winning record of 11-9 at yearbook presstime. The Eagles defeated the Georgia State Panthers for the second time in the season with an easy 83-68 victory. The game was an exciting crowd pleaser. Senior Deora Marsh was an inspiration to his teammates and fans when he made three slam dunks—including one spinning backward. The Eagles put on an excellent offensive and defensive show. This was Southern's sixth victory in the last eight games.

Post-season hopes for this year's Eagles are not completely out of the picture, but almost so. If USM wins the remainder of its games, the record would be 17-9. Perhaps a bid from the NIT is possible.

Coach M.K. Turk said of his team, "I suppose the biggest problem we've faced this year is the quality of our opponents. This team hasn't played a bad game. We've been inconsistent in offensive shooting. Fortunately our defense has held up. It's won games for us and taken us down to the wire in others."

USM's Lady Eagles, led by fifth year head cocah Kay James had an impressive 12-6 record, when the annual went to the presses. The Lady Golden Eagles began the season with a six game winning streak.

In their first game the Eagles defeated the Tulane Lady Green Waves in an easy 84-66 smashing in Reed Green Coliseum. "Porky" McCaskill had a game high 23 points. Several days later USM defeated Mississippi University of Women 73-47, again they won at home. Louisiana became the next target for the Lady Eagles. First, Southeastern Louisiana was rolled over in a 78-54 loss to Southern in Reed Green. Then, Northeastern Louisiana bit the dust in a close match. The final score was USM 75, Northeastern 73. Diane Jones led the Lady netters with 20 points, Prtland McCaskill had 19 rebounds in the game.

Interview:

Kay James

by Lynne Clary

SOUTHERNER: You're into your fifth season at USM—how do you feel about this year's team?

JAMES: This year's team is a different team than any team that I've had in that we've got several freshmen. We have more of a fastbreak ball than we've had before. We're not quite as tall but can do things in a different way than in the past. We feel that, due to our leaping ability, we can rebound with taller teams and that with our quickness we can run with fast teams. So we have a combination of both, where in the past we've had more of a patient-type offense and were not quite as quick.

SOUTHERNER: So then your strong points are . . .

JAMES: Quickness, fastbreak offense and leaping ability.

SOUTHERNER: Weaknesses?

JAMES: Our main weakness is that they're young. We start off three freshmen and untill you get a full year of college experience it's hard for a freshman to step in and be a starter. We have three freshmen starters—that seems to be the only weakness at this point. They're working hard, they have good attitudes and fundamentally they are sound—just lack of experience.

SOURTHERNER: What changes or improvements have you made?

JAMES: Well, each year you change based on what personnel you need. As far as improvements go we have a different look so we're not basing it on the years in the past, we are looking into the future and what areas we need more strength in. For example: next year we'll be looking for the girl inside; this year we picked up guards and forwards. Each year it changes and it varies based on personnel.

SOUTHERNER: How do you feel about this year's schedule?

JAMES: This year's schedule is very competitive, there's no question about that. It is one of the best we've had at Southern and obviously it's pretty tough. We're nine and five right now and with the material that we have if we were playing a weak schedule we could possibly be undefeated—but we don't we play a tough schedule with big name schools and in the long run it will help us. It may be a little hard on us this being the freshman year for some of these players but in the long run it'll pay off.

SOUTHERNER: Over all what do you feel has been your greatest accomplishment in working with the Lady Golden Eagles?

JAMES: We've had some big wins. I think the greatest accomplishment at this point is that we've not had a losing season. We have had some good years. We've gone as far as the regional tournament with the AIAW and now we're changing over to the NCAA, women's basketball, and our goals and our aims after we do is to get into a post season soon.

Portland McCaskill—3; Dianne Jones—10; Lynn Noble—11; Joye Nell Lee—14; Dianne Backstrom—15; Suzanne Gillespie—20; Kathy Griffin—21; Anita Dudley—22; Juliette Weaver—24; Dianne Giddens—25; Wilhelmina Smith—30; Terah Berch—32; Stacie Foster—33; Rose Smith—35; Anna Jones—41.

USM's first loss came on the road. Arkansas College and the Lady Eagles battled through the game. Arkansas won 81-78. Then Southern bounced back with a close win against Arkansas State. McCaskill led the lady Eagles with 16 points and 14 rebounds in the 55-53 defeat.

USM had one of their most difficult games against Memphis State in Memphis. The Lady Eagles could not handle the powerful play and speed of Memphis, and lost in a sound whipping, 101-87. Juliette Weaver and Rose Smith were the leading scorers for the Eagles with 17 points, Smith had 11 rebounds in the game.

The Lady Eagles playing against Northeastern Louisiana for the second time in the season won easily at home 116-79. Juliette Weaver and Joye Lee each had 17 points in the game, sharing top honors. Joye Lee had among her points, seven free throws. USM had 50 field-goals made, a team high for the season.

USM lost their next three games all on the road. The Lady Eagles were defeated 81-72 by the Ole Miss Rebels in Oxford. Then Tulane rolled over Southern, 75-57, splitting the season's games with USM. Finally, USM lost a heartbreaker to Southeastern Louisiana. They were defeated by one point, 81-80 was the final tally.

Southern's Lady Eagles regrouped and went on to defeat Florida 73-62. South Alabama fell victim to the Eagles next, and Florida was beaten in a 94-84 battle with the rampaging Eagles. In the Florida game, the Eagles played all aspects of the game well as they managed to connect on over 50 percent of their shots from the field. USM fell six points behind in the early-going, but rallied back behind Joye Lee's shooting. Lee had 24 total points in the game.

Jackson State was a totally different story. Freshman sensation, Portland McCaskill was hurt early in the game in a collison against JSU's Gloria Freeman. Both girls had to have stitches. Behind strong offensive and defensive board work, the Lady Tigers were able to take a 25-22 lead at halftime. Jackson State went on to win the game. The Eagles dropped to 11-6 as a result of that contest.

The Delta State Lady Statesmen could not handle the excellent offense of the Eagles, and as a result Delta State lost their battle 67-85. USM led the whole game and was aided by Joye Lee, who had a game-high 26 points. Portland McCaskill returned to play after being injured in the game earlier in the week.

Starters for Coach Kay James were Portland "Porky" McCaskill, Dianne Jones, Rose Smith, Juliette Weaver and Joye Lee. McCaskill, a freshman forward from Mendenhall, Mississippi, led the Lady Eagles with 13.4 points per game.

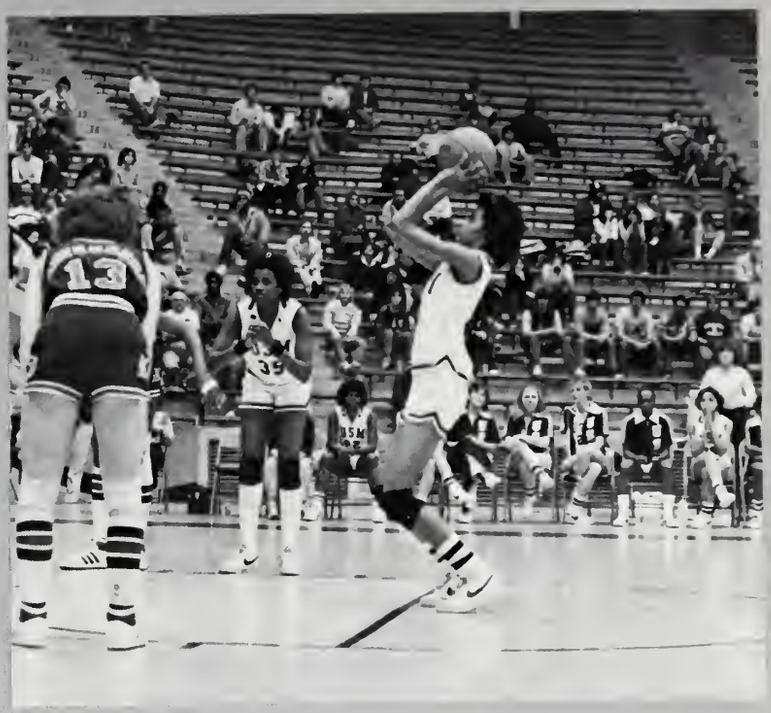

Jones was second behind Juliette Weaver with a 53.7 field-goal percentage. Rose Smith was an excellent rebounder, and had an average of 7.1 rebounds per game. Weaver led the Eagles in field-goal percentage, she shot 61.5 percent from the floor. Joye Lee had an excellent year. Lee had high game for the Eagles with 26 points, Lee also led the team in free throws made, she had 83.3 percent from the line.

Sports Medics

It is easy to think of an athletic team as just a coach and group of players competing out on the fields, courts, and tracks. But there is another integral part of the teams which is immanently important—Athletic trainers. It is their responsibility to administer emergency medical care on the playing field and also to prevent, evaluate, treat, and rehabilitate injuries or illness sustained during practices or games. The staff consists of Certified Athletic Trainers Dr. Earnest L. Harrington (Head trainer), and Jim Gallaspy (Assistant Trainer). Others include the Student Athletic Trainers, Team Physician Dr. Boyd Kellet, and consulting medical specialists.

Interview:

COACH TAYLOR

by Susan Wolfe

Southerner: What is your overall view of USM athletics:

Taylor: The strides in athletics under Coach Dale have been tremendous. For instance, now we can have an opponent like Tulane and have 30,000 people in the stands and only 1500 of those are from Tulane. Also, the MSU-USM game in Jackson this year set records in attendance with 64,000 people there. Used to, basketball couldn't gear 1400 people, and now they have 65-7000 at some games. And this year James is in NIT (National Invitational Tournament). Everybody's doing so much in athletics.

Southerner: How is this year's baseball team doing thus far in the season?

Taylor: "It's just one of those years." We are trying to get as respectable as we can. The things we were expecting out of this year's team just didn't turn out like we thought they would. Last year Doug Pearson broke every record in USM baseball except one, and this year he's not hitting 240 in some games. Our first string pitcher broke his collar bone and our second string pitcher, Richard Garrett, had an arm injury. Coaches Rick, Deweese, Coleman and I are searching and hoping for a good caliber player, and the new field might help some too.

Southerner: What are the strengths and weaknesses of this year's team?

Taylor: A weakness is that we don't have the long ball hitter. In 24 games we have had only two home runs. We don't have any fire power. In a seven inning game, we left 12 men on the bases, something you just don't do. If we have a good game pitching, then we don't have a hitting game and vice versa. We have to get better, but with our number one pitcher out, we have a bleak outlook, but we'll keep working. What we thought we had defensively and what we counted on didn't happen. We are not consistent and have no strong point as of now. Richard Garrett and Mike Minton are our mainstays and with power on the plate, we would have won more games than the 8-17 record we have now.

Southerner: What does the future hold for USM baseball.

Taylor: A new ballpark and extensive recruiting. The only way we can go is up. We have three very fine student coaches who work and know baseball. In the next couple of years, I hope we can get over the 500 mark and be respectable, maybe even get in a prestigious conference, which would be to our advantage.

Southerner: Do you feel there is enough emphasis on baseball at USM?

Taylor: Yes, this year I have had more help than I ever had.

Southerner: What in your 24-year career as head baseball coach and 15-years as assistant athletic director are you most proud of?

Taylor: Working with Coach Dale and Coach Vann and being placed in three Hall of Fames. Those honors I am most proud of.

Vann and being placed in three Hall of Fames. Those honors I am most proud of.

Southerner: You have been associated with this university, both as a student and as a coach for 30 years, what are you pleased with most about USM?

Taylor: The progress the university has made is a big part of my life. Athletics is doing its best to stay up with the rest of the university like the science department, nursing, The Pride and Dixie Darlings and the research done by the professors and the university itself putting a lot of money into the economy. The university is moving under Lucas. Our band is on national every year and our music program is second to none. The leadership of our university is in most capable hands and we appreciate his (Dr. Lucas) support for athletics. I'm pleased with the pace we have gotten going now and hope it keeps moving.

Southerner: Are there any other comments you would like to make about USM or baseball?

Taylor: The University of Southern Mississippi has been mighty good to me in every way—in the way of education, athletics and every other way.

Through the years Alpha Kappa Alpha's program has had as its chief aim "service to all mankind." To fulfill this aim the members of the chapter participated in raising funds for the Kidney Foundation, Salvation Army, and March of Dimes. They visited rest homes, collected and donated clothing, and sponsored a Black Collaborating Conference.

Membership is open to women of high ethical and scholastic standards who are pursuing or have a degree in an accredited college or university.

A lady is a truly beautiful creature—inside and out. She is a perfect mixture of grace complemented by a refreshing and loving personality. Add to this a twinkle of mischief and the never extinguished spark of love in sisterhood and the product is an Alpha Sigma Alpha lady. As individuals, this bond of sisterhood enables us to blend into a harmonious and loving group who accepts each others faults and encourages each other in their abilities. This group is an intermingling of dancers, singers, nurses, teachers, librarians, pianists, and interests. Our sisters are active throughout the campus in Alph Lambda delta, Lambda Sigma, Phi Delta Rho, Panhellenic Talent Show, Senate, Del Sur, pep rallies, intramural champs, philanthropies, Greek Games champion and Greek goddess. Our social aim is fulfilled through formals, swaps, Alumni Tea, Parent/Daughter Banquet, Candlelights, Songfest, crying at a sister's wedding, Big Sis-Little Sis, Secret Sis and Christmas parties. To grow to our best ability physically, spiritually, socially and intellectually—the four aims of our sorority. Alpha Sigma Alpha holds a wonderful experience that begins in college and will be cherished throughout a lifetime.

College of Business Administration

Rapid technological change, the increasing complexity of society, and the growing role of government in business, economic, and social affairs are placing new requirements on the administration throughout the country whether they are employed in business, government, or non-profit organizations.

Within the College of Business Administration the content of the courses and the curricula are changed as needed to see that the college meets its primary objective of assisting students in securing entry-level positions in business and government and provides them the background for attaining higher levels of managerial responsibility after experience. The young men and women who study in the college are provided with the opportunity for a liberal education as well as professional training. College of Science and Technology

The College of Science and Technology has enjoyed phenomenal growth since its beginning 14 years ago. USM's young faculty with the aid of thoroughly modern facilities has worked hard to achieve the objectives of excellence in teaching, research, and service. We are dedicated to helping solve the problems of today's world, in all scientific areas, ranging from our development of cardiac monitoring instruments to the excavation of fossils of large aquatic mammals.

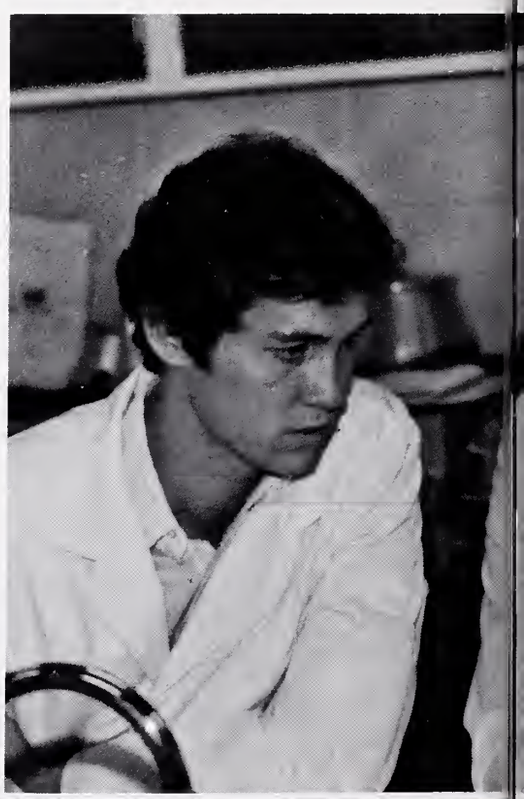

The college offers a combination of traditional and innovative programs in science, technology, and mathematics. Our 12 departments offer 20 different majors and 10 pre professional programs. We have many unique features such as learning labs, which individualize instruction, co-op programs, and student assisted research projects. The marine biology department is especially strong, due to our close proximity to the Gulf Coast Research Lab. Our technological programs are specially developed for direct application to industry. They are designed to give students a working knowledge of industrial application and an understanding of basic supervisory skills.

Industry advisory boards have been established to assure that our curriculum remains up to date, practical and pertinent. USM graduates are continually proving the worth of the Science and Technology programs with successful careers throughout the world in all areas of science and technology.

Any major offered by the university can be chosen by an Honors Collete student. The core curriculum, however, will be replaced by research projects, independent study, and an honors core.

The University and the community benefit from the Honors College through special service such as the University Program Series, which consists of a lecture series, outstanding films, panel, and other informative programs. Dean of the Honors College is Wallace Kay.

DR. AUBREY K. LUCAS
USM PRESIDENT:

Moving USM Toward Distinction

by Susan Wolfe

"This university is moving toward a kind of distinction that cannot be denied it," says Aubrey K. Lucas, president of USM "Everyone here wants it and it's being realized gradually but surely."

Lucas has been associated with USM for almost 30 years in one way or another. He first entered school here in 1952 as an undergraduate. Four years later with a major in Elementary Education and a minor in History, Lucas worked on his Master's Degree in Reading while serving as Assistnat Director of the Reading Clinic. After teaching one year of Reading at Hinds Junior College, he returned to USM as director of Admissions and also served as Registrar and Dean of the Graduate School before becoming President of Delta State University. "He came back," as one person puts it, "to USM in 1975, this time as president."

"If I have any success as president here, it will be because the students, faculty, staff and alumni have nurtured me to be the kind of president they feel their university needs," says Lucas. In his seven years as president of Southern, he says, "the biggest thing I feel I've accomplished is to create an environment in which people with ability can develop."

Lucas says he could point to curriculm or buildings as part of his success as a university president, "but that does not a university make." He adds, "A university is people who need to be encouraged, persuaded and rewarded to do those things which they can do best."

"I've always enjoyed the teaching field," says Lucas, "but it seems my fate to devote most of my time to administration." He adds that his happiest moments are "seeing the faculty teaching beautifully, publishing, creating, researching, developing students and rendering service to the state."

Lucas said there is greater enthusiasm at USM and he credits some of that to the success in athletics. "I'm convinced that our successful athletic program gives us greater visability than anything we could have done. It is very important."

"I want us to be a university of great value particularly to this state and I want us to be judged by the people of this state to be the very best." Among those things Lucas wants for the university are a well paid faculty with national and international reputations, a Health-Education building, additions to the Cook Library, improved library holdings, renovated or replaced dormatories, better equipment for teaching and research and improved offices for the faculty. "My main concern," says Lucas, "is financing the university and these goals in the face of the state's economic setbacks."

When asked how he feels about this university which seems as much a part of his life as his wife, Ella, and his four children, Frances, 25, Carol, 20, Alan, 18, and Mark 13, Lucas replies, "I love this university . . . I'm proud of it."

Every spring semester the Greek community at USM comes together for the annual Greek Games competetion at USM's Lake Sehoy. Each fraternity is randomly paired with a sorority to comprise the teams. Weeks before the day-long competition, the teams ready themselves for such events as relay races, swimming, and tug-o-wars.

Having selected their most deserving members, the fraternity and sorority team that wins the overall Greek Games competition also takes the honor of having the University's Greek God and Goddess for the year. For 1981 that honor went to Kappa Sigma and Chi Omega whose members Randy Shepherd and Nena Brister are USM's Greek God and Goddess.

Greek God And Goddess Randy Shepherd And Nena Brister

Two Days Off . . .

Snow and ice chilled and thrilled Hattiesburg residents the week of January 14th with power outages, slick roads, and frozen noses. While other parts of the state received up to six inches of snow and ice, Hattiesburg's one-half inch postponed USM registration two days, giving students and extended Christmas break.

Eagle Mascot: A USM Tradition

He dances with cheerleaders, Dixie Darlings, and pompon girls! He tears up a teddy bear at Alabama! He climbs goal posts in a single bound! Who is this daring masked man? Is it a bird? Plane? No! It's USM's Golden Eagle Mascot.

Athletics at Southern is not complete without the entertaining Eagle. The mascot, whose purpose is to generate USM enthusiasm, performs along sidelines (and sometimes in the midst of things) at all major athletic functions.

In 1981, Jeff Davis, a junior from Yazoo City, Mississippi was the driving force inside the crazy-costumed Eagle. Davis, a hotel and restaurant administration major, was chosen for mascot because he was the first person to ever flip while in complete costume. Davis (alias the Golden Eagle) does flips and a lot more for Southern fans. Along with dancing and cheering, the mascot also marches with the band, mimickes referees, and scraps with other school mascots. The most spectacular stunt came at Homecoming when Davis rolled onto the field inside a giant egg. When the egg finally cracked, Davis hopped out revealing the big surprise. A new $1400 eagle suit donated by Hattiesburg businessmen and banks. The new suit and the extraordinary personality inside it combined to make the one and only Eagle Mascot an integral part of Southern athletics and a USM tradition.

New Head Coach:

Jim Carmody

February 27, the Southerner was granted an interview with new Head Football Coach Jim Carmody. Below are some excerpts from that interview.

SOUTHERNER: How do you feel about the situation you're stepping into here—football wise—as far as the team is concerned?

CARMODY: I feel like the schedule is more difficult. I realize that and I think we have to guard against complacency. I think it looks like the players are determined, but sometimes when you look at it down on paper—you can easily say, "Oh boy, we've got everyone back—all the football players, but we've got to work even harder than we did in the past because the schedule's harder. We dropped Texas-Arlington and Lamar and added Auburn and Ole Miss. That's just two examples there. I think it's the most difficult schedule USM's ever had in the history of the school.

SOUTHERNER: I know you mentioned a lot of returning football players. Davey Sellers is gone and Sammy Winder won't be back. Are you going to make any significant changes, as far as the running game is concerned, to more of a passing-oriented game?

CARMODY: Davey Sellers is gone—that's true. But not only is Sammy Winder gone, but Ricky Floyd who played behind Sammy, certainly a big, big threat for four years; particularly in catching the football and throwing the option-pass. He can make a long run for you with his great speed. So We've lost our first two tailbacks. I think the jury's out on the others. But as far as throwing the football—we may throw the football more, but we're not going to change drastically. I think to win nine games, and you have a quarterback like Reggie Collier coming back to go out there and change your whole offense is not very smart. So we're going to keep the same running attack, and we might add a few new wrinkles to the passing game. There won't be any drastic changes.

SOUTHERNER: How do you think the change in coaching has affected recruiting players? I guess the best example would be Marcus Dupree. A lot of people had high hopes about him.

CARMODY: I think that's a real misconception about Marcus Dupree. The change in coaches had nothing to do with Marcus Dupree . . . if it had he would have gone to SMU. People need to figure it out. It wasn't individuals or coaching staff. We got down to the wire with Oklahoma. It was Oklahoma and the University of Southern Mississippi vying for the most prestigious player in America. He decided on Oklahoma. We certainly do wish him well. He's a fine player. We've got a lot of good players. Marcus Dupree went with Oklahoma, but we're very, very excited about our team.

SOUTHERNER: When we talked with Bobby Collins he said Reggie Collier had a good chance (for a Heisman Trophy)—that is was possible at Southern Mississippi to have a Heisman Trophy winner.

CARMODY: Well, I think that's true. I talked to the players about that. Some people say "Don't go to Southern Mississippi—you won't get the recognition," but this is untrue. Reggie finished ninth in the voting for the Heisman trophy as an underclassman. Certainly he is one of, if not the best, quarterbacks in the nation. We don't stress that with Reggie—I didn't even bring that up in the team meeting—those are things that are extra. We don't stress thinking about individual achievements and individual awards. This is a team-oriented ball club. We've got a good year—we've got a good chance for some post-season awards; but as far as the main problem of Southern Mississippi getting a Heisman Trophy, that isn't the issue; the main thing is to win as a team.

SOUTHERNER: Do you sense any apprehension on the part of the players about the schedule next year?

CARMODY: We really strive—this is an old cliche—as you start looking to a date later in the season, you'll probably get beat by North Louisana. We have not sat down and started spring practice yet and gone over our schedule. Whether there will be any apprehension or not—I feel like we've got a good football team and they'll be looking forward to it enthusiastically.

Aquila chrysaetos:

Nuggett

There is something awesome about an eagle. They seem to be the embodiment of pride and power. In choosing a mascot, the University of Southern Mississippi couldn't have done better when they chose the Golden Eagle, Aquila chrysaetos.

USM's own live, warm blooded, Golden Eagle has a wing span of six feet and nine inches, weighs nine to eleven pounds, is approximately three and a half years old (just a youngster considering her life span is 60 to 70 years) and lives in a special constructed mew on USM's campus. Her name is Nuggett, a name chosen in a contest by students and alumni.

Nuggett was found in southern Louisiana with a gunshot wound in one of her wings. She was taken to Auburn University, where she was rehabilitated at Auburn's Small Animal Clinic. USM was granted custody of Nuggett by the Department of Interior and she was moved to Hattiesburg just over a year ago and kept at Kamper Park Zoo until the permanent mew (this is what one calls a cage for a bird of prey) could be built. The reason for USM being able to keep a Golden Eagle in captivity is due to the fact that she was evaluated as not being able to survive in the wild. As it is she has the next best thing—a whole university for a fan club and two handlers, Patty Simm and Trecia Osadchuk who adore here and are concerned with her every need. Trecia and Patty are animal behavior majors at USM and volunteered for the almost never easy task of caring for and training Nuggett. Nuggett isn't only the concern of USM, she is protected by Federal regulations that carry fines up to $20,000 and/or a year in jail on each count. Even the feathers that Nuggett might shed are carefully collected and sent to the Department of Interior to be given to the American Indians who are the only group who can legally possess and use them. All funding for the feeding and care of Nuggett comes from students, alumni and friends in the form of donation.

Golden Eagles are known to form monogamous life-long pair bonds and in the future it is hoped that it will be possible to secure a mate for Nuggett—you know what that means—more gold nuggetts.

Not only did USM receive national ranking in 1981 and Coach Collins was named UPI "Coach of the Week," But seven members of the Golden Eagle squad were also recognized for outstanding personal achievement.

Reggie Collier is the first quarterback in the NCAA annals to run and pass for more than 1,000 yards in a single season. Collier, who ran for 1,005 and passed for 1,004 yards, was selected as the State of Mississippi's "Offensive Player of the Year," as well as being named the Associated Press third-team All America choice at quarterback, Tailback Sammy Winder was a first team selection on the All South Independent team, along with teammates Collier, nose guard Jerald Baylis and defensive end George Tillman. Three others earned second-team All South honors: defensive end Rhett Whitley, offensive tackle Glen Howe and defensive cornerback Bud Brown.

Winder, who led the nation in scoring in 1980 with 120 points on 20 touchdowns, had 12 TD's in '81. The school's all-time career touchdown king had 39 to his credit and was also the leading scorer with 324 points. Winder's 1,029 yards in '81 hiked his career rushing total to 3,114 yards, which is the second best in USM's history.

In addition to football honors, Head Basketball coach M.K. Turk placed second as the Male Basketball College Coach of the year.

Happy Hundredth Hattiesburg!

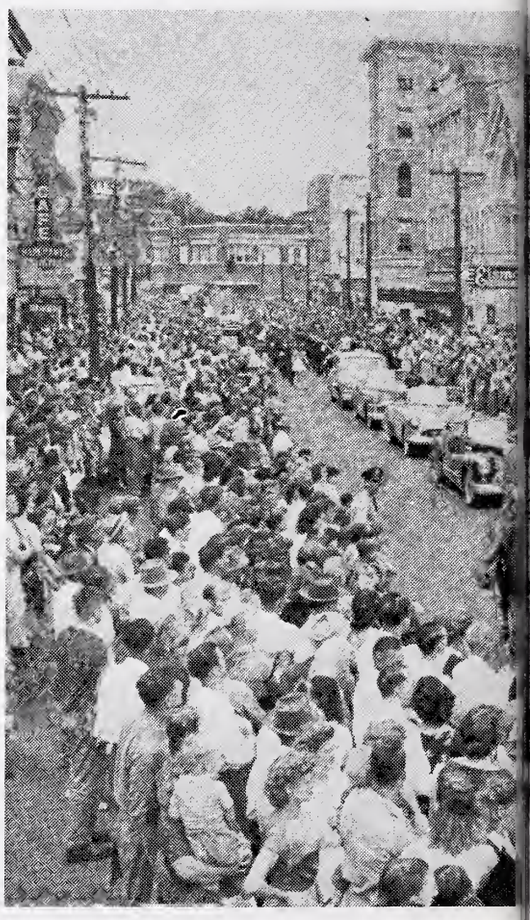

1982 marked the 100th anniversary of the founding of Hattiesburg. Through assorted media, both students at USM and Hattiesburg natives were made aware of the centennial. Local schools and community service organizations sponsored programs in conjunction with the Hub City.

Originally known as the Piney Woods Area, Hattiesburg was founded by William H. Hardy, a railroad employee. In 1882, while Hardy was enroute from Meridian to New Orleans, setting up railway stations along the way, he came across the Piney Woods Area and named the new-found settlement location after his wife, Hattie.

The teens, twenties . . . forties . . . fifties . . . and seventies have past . . . ten decades in all. Today, in 1982, Hattiesburg is a full fledged city of 40,829 residents, hundreds of businesses, a dozen schools and is growing all the time.

Lifestyles

by Susan Wolfe and Lynne Clary

Living in the dorm is an experience in sharing everyday events with those in the same hall or floor. It has been said that dorm life is a big part of college education and earning a degree would not be complete without it.

All residents have to deal with the normalities of dorm life, like no hot water for a shower, the room being too hot or cold, or everyone deciding to test the volume on their stereos at the same time—around midnight. It is the frustrated R.A. who finally yells, "Quiet!", after nicely asking the residents to hold the noise down fifty times previously. Actually it is the resident managers and assistants that keep the confusion and chaos in the dorm as organized and as efficient as it is to where most dorm residents consider "their room or hall" their "home away from home".

Loneliness seems to be rare for the dorm resident, unless he stays in his room with the door closed all the time. People are everywhere, especially in the strategically located places like the bathroom or lobby where the TV is. Visitation offers another opportunity to be with people. Thursdays from 6 to 11:30pm and Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays from 2 to 11:30 pm are the times residents have to remember to dress in a presentable fashion for the visiting opposite sex and also to be careful not to go into the wrong bathroom. And all residents know to expect the same announcement at the same time each night, "Visitation will be over in fifteen minutes. Please bring your guest to the lobby."

The good times include parties and swaps and the extremely interesting floor meetings where the same rules are recited over and over in hopes of some form of comprehension or understanding. Late nights prove very exciting at times when everyone is feeling good and there are people throwing others in the showers or having shaving cream or water balloon wars. Unless one has a hearing problem, he keeps up with his neighbors because of the convenience of thin walls. Not only can one standing in one room hear the next room's phone ringing or stereo blaring, but also its occupants talking in their normal voices. The walls really need to be at least four feet thick!

Dorm life is a growing experience that teaches patience, acceptance, and diplomacy. When living in such a compact space, one is very close to others, possibly and probably much different from himself. This naturally brings in conflict, which once dealt with and resolved, makes a person much stronger from the experience. Some of a person's best friends are made in college, and one reason for this could be that both people share in the growing and shaping of the ideas one carries with himself for the rest of his life. Eating (too much), sleeping (not enough), studying (never enough), playing (too much)—just living—is done primarily in the dorm setting with basically the same people.

Living off campus, has its good aspects and its not so good aspects also. Usually living off campus entails an apartment, trailor, or duplex. One of the nicest aspects of off campus living is privacy and the freedom to do what one wants to when one wants to and how one wants to. Room is also a very nice part of apartment living—one isn't confined to sharing one small space with another person. Living in an apartment also leaves open the possibility of those nice little or large get-togethers which one is frequently inclined to have. One also doesn't have to wait on the shower (depending on one's roommate) or tote toothpaste down a long hall. Neither does one have to eat or be quiet at a certain time—for a person renting his own place there is a greater possibility for a more flexible schedule than that of a dorm student's. There is also a certain amount of learning which goes along with off campus living. The learning of responsibility. Now we're getting into the less desirable aspects of off campus living: BILLS. At a certain time of the month a certain aching pain occurs in one's pocketbook if he happens to live in an apartment. The pain of rent and the various other bills that go along with the territory. One learns quickly that nasty things occur when one neglects paying these bills and, when such an occasion arises, there is no one to blame it on but #1.

Time is another problem with renting an apartment—there's never enough. Apartments are usually larger than dorm rooms—more space to mess up—there's vacuuming and washing dishes etc., which takes up time. Another time consumer is cooking for one's self—and even worse than the time lost is the fact that one has to actually eat one's own cooking (you can't go to McDonalds everyday). Something that goes along with eating is grocery shopping—another syphon for time, not to mention money. One learns quickly the meaning of budget when it comes to time and money.

Then there is transportation. Unlike dorm students, a person living off campus must somehow get to the campus. There are various ways of doing this, depending how far one lives off campus. Bringing a car is fine—if you can fold it up and tuck it in a book when you get to campus—otherwise, it's a game of merry-go-round the campus looking for a parking space, which is often never found. Of course there is always the old reliable bike and the never failing feet, both of which are easy to park.

It may sound as if the bad aspects are greater than the good in off campus living but this all depends on how much one values those aspects which he considers good.

DIVERSION!

by Rachel Tullos

A long time ago, about the middle of the ninth century, in a place far, far away, Europe to be exact, the first universities were built. The students studied the usual stuff . . . Rhetoric, astronomy, logic and parchment writing. Back then, when the all male students had to escape the pressures of schoolwork, their entertainment was vastly different from today's coeds. The young man often stayed up all night gambling away his meager allowance or robbing the poor defenseless people in the streets. If he was lucky he spent an enjoyable evening with females . . . in brothels.

Times have changed. Students are not so unorthodox in their entertainment anymore. When a student finds spare time from studying, which isn't often, he or she likes to take his or her mind off school. So, what do students do at USM for entertainment? Certainly the night out on the town of dinner and dancing is one of the most entertaining of USM coeds. Bonnie and Clydes, Cash McCools and Mad Jack's in Laurel were the favorite dancing spots. The better eat-outs were Ichabod's, Conestoga Steak House, Faughn's, and the old favorite, Pizza Hut. The End Zone and Nicks rated tops in brewn-fun establishments. Patrick McCabe, a freshman from Gulfport, Mississippi said, "My friends and I like to go dancing on the Robert E. Lee Showboat in Biloxi."

Sporting events were popular with the crowd, whether they participated or just observed the game. Athletes like Reggie Collier, Curtis Green, and Jeff Eure spent a lot of spare time practicing and preparing for their respective sports. Intramurals had the average student participating in athletics for fun. Wanda Tisdale spent most of her free time watching television; her favorites included Dynasty and Flamingo Road. Wanda added "I collect coins and stamps, but USM doesn't allow much time for that."

The University Activities Council plays a big part in on campus entertainment. Concerts like Snow, Pablo Cruise, and Kool and the Gang were special events. Hit movies every Thursday night for 50¢ was an added treat. Then, of course, the famous UAC beer busts!

Students not only saw great movies on Thursday, but they often went out with friends to some of the local theatres. Some of the more popular flicks were Taps, Raiders of the Lost Ark, Reds, On Golden Pond, Ragtime, and Victor/Victoria.

Pac Man held its own among all the new video games and students were often found giving up their quarters in the Union Game Room. Pool, foosball, and other rabble games remained a pastime of the students. Everyone did something to have a good time.

Lance Chancellor, a junior marketing major from Laurel, Mississippi, commented "My girlfriend Lisa and I, during our spare time, either go to the coast for an evening of fine dining and dancing, or we get a group of friends together for a canoe trip."

Professors also must clear their minds of such hazardous things as thoughts of tests to be graded and curves to be adjusted. They enjoy the same pastimes as the students. Of course, that can't be said of all teachers. Dr. James Lea, a political science professor beats his frustrations out with a tennis ball, and Dr. T.H. Fay, who teaches trigonometry, enjoys fishing in his spare time. Professors are human too.

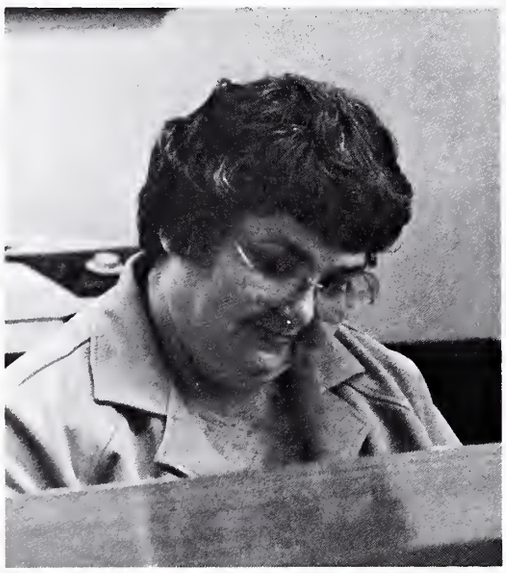

As children we learn the need to play and enjoy ourselves for relaxation; as adults we continue to "play", but the games are for grownups. Karl Menninger once said, "people who don't play are potentially dangerous. There seems to be a general idea that recreation is all right if one doesn't take it too seriously. My belief is that the greater danger lies in not taking it seriously enough."

Walk into any fast food restaurant, retail store, or just about any small business in Hattiesburg and you are sure to see a familiar face waiting to help you—someone you have seen before but just cannot seem to place. That face, more than likely, belongs to a student at USM. In fact, almost half of the students here at USM hold part-time or full time jobs either in Hattiesburg or on the campus.

Why is such a large number of USM students working? Many students work in order to put their way through school, while some work just for extra spending money. Still others work for the experience in their major field of study. No matter what their reason for working may be, these students will tell you working while going to school sometimes is not very easy. For many, learning to juggle work, class, and study schedules soon becomes a way of life.

For those students who wish to work, but do not know which jobs are available or how to find out about them, the University provides the Student Employment Service. The Service attempts to find jobs for those students who go to the office for help. During the 1981 fall semester, approximately one thousand students applied for work through the Student Employment Service.

Working provides a number of benefits for many students. Work experience and a paycheck top the list, but working also gives students a chance to meet and work with many new people they might not have met otherwise.

Editing the 1982 SOUTHERNER was an honor. It was also the largest but most rewarding challenge I have ever undertaken. It was a lesson in leadership, public relations, and time management all in one. The benefits of the experience heavily outweighed the most trying of times.

A lot more goes into compiling a yearbook than many realize. Countless hours were spent drawing layouts, interviewing, photographing, copywriting, and proofing. There were many who helped to put the book together but I would especially like to thank those dedicated few who were always on hand to help out. I would never have been able to put it all together without Cheri Campbell, my assistant editor. Her creativity, loyalty, and patience were so very valuable. Thanks to Warren K. Dunn's understanding and willingness to try new concepts in the 1982 SOUTHERNER I feel the book is a success. As the SOUTHERNER's advisor, Mr. Dunn could not have been more supportive and helpful. Also deserving a special thanks are my section editors and staff.

It is impossible to please everyone. However, I hope that all will find some part of the 1982 SOUTHERNER satisfactory.

Here it is!
